asketball Blue Book. It won't answer all the questions, but we hope you will find it a handy little gadget to have around. We're on call to furnish information which may not be included. Also we will seek to supply you with pictures or mats and to keep you posted on developments.

You are cordially invited to cover our games. Although our Working Press space is limited, if you will give us sufficient notice, we will do our best to make room for you. Usually we are forced to limit newspapers to two spaces and Radio Broadcasting crews to three. Tickets will not be mailed, but should be picked up at the Sports News Office, 207-C Woollen Gymnasium.

We hope to improve conditions at the Working Press tables and request your cooperation, including an understanding of our problems.

March 3-5 Southern Conference Tournament

Varsity Outlook

With only three lettermen back, North Carolina's White Phantoms faced a rebuilding process this season, but had a surprisingly good start, winning all five of their pre-Christmas tune-up games.

The returned monogram wearers are forward Coy Carson, center Sherman (Nemo) Nearman and guard Dan Nyimicz, all three of whom are in this season's starting lineup. The other starters are newcomer Hugo Kappler, 6-2 sophomore from Brooklyn, N. Y., and Fred (Rip) Ryan, a junior from Trenton, N. J., who was a reserve last season.

Gone are such aces as Bob Paxton, Norm Kohler, Johnny (Hook) Dillon, Roger Scholbe, Fred Swartzberg, Mervin Cole, Mark Nathan and Taylor Thorne, with a new crop filling in to take their places.

The early season wins were over Lenior Rhyne (68-51), Guilford (52-32), Catawba (57-47), Elon (66-32), Hanes Hosiery (64-60).

Coy Carson, much improved and with considerably more poise, led the sharpshooting in the early games with 85 points for the five. In the opener with Lenior Rhyne he rolled in 28 points.

Nearman also appears to be a much more stable performer than in the past two seasons, playing well in the openers and making good 20 charity tosses.

Most improved of all is little Rip Ryan, classiest ball handler on the squad, who has been a circus on the floor. He promises to hold to his starting post. Dan Nyimicz, the other guard, also has filled in well.

Newcomer Kappler lacks experience but may turn out to be a star before the season ends. He has a fine one hand push shot and is very aggressive, good off the boards.

Charlie Thorne, guard, John Tsantes, forward, and Howard Deasy, guard, are the other three players showing up best.

The White Phantoms meet Arizona in the Camellia Bowl at LaFayette, La., in their first start after Christmas, Dec. 28.

The Coaches

TOM SCOTT (Head Coach): Now in his third year as head basketball coach at the University of North Carolina, affable Tom has established himself not only as a highly competent mentor but as one of the most able men at Woollen gymnasium in taking care of other chores.

Before coming here Tom coached for five years in Kansas high schools, then was head coach at Concordia College in Morehead, Minn., where he stayed two years. In 1938 he went to Central Missouri State Teachers' College and remained there four years. He served four years in the Navy as a Lieutenant before returning to Missouri State Teachers.

His record was extremely outstanding, which resulted in his being offered the post here. His teams won M. I. A. A. conference championships four years out of five. In five years his teams lost only five conference games. During all five years his teams were selected as representatives in the National Intercollegiates. His team defeated the University of Kansas in 1939, the year Kansas won the Western NCAA championship. Won the Oklahoma City tournament by defeating such powerful quints as Oklahoma A. & M., Texas, S. M. U., and Tulsa. Never defeated by Missouri Valley teams.

Coach Scott has had his bumps at Carolina, but his record for the two seasons he has been here has been highly creditable. His first team won 19 games and lost eight. His team last winter won its first twelve games before being stopped and finished the season with a 20-7 record. In 1947 his White Phantoms went to the finals of the Southern Conference tournament, losing to N. C. State by 50-48. In 1948 the Phantoms lost in the semi-finals of the tournament to the same team.

Quite, reserved, Coach Scott, who is married and has two children, likes to play bridge, fish, hunt, and also tour the fairways occasionally.

CLYDE E. (PETE) MULLIS (Assistant Coach): A native of Charlotte, N. C., Pete got his start in basketball there. He showed early talent at the game, playing on midget and junior teams, then starring for four years on the Charlotte Central high team. He was a brilliant player for the White Phantoms from 1934 through 1938. A little man for a basketball player, he distinguished himself with his long outside shooting expert ball handling, and fine competive spirit.

Pete has been a member of the family of the Physical Education School since he graduated at Carolina and now is an assistant professor. He has doubled as an assistant varsity coach for the past several years. Despite his dimunitive size, Pete is a big wheel in the affairs of Woollen gymnasium.

He is married and has three children, all girls. Hunting is his favorite recreation, with shooting the breeze number two.

REVIEW OF 1

North Carolina started the 1947-48 season with a rush. The White Phantoms romped on their first 12 opponents and amassed a total of 683 points as compared with the opposition's 446. On the eve of their 13th tilt—with N. Y. U.—forward Bill Miller, a mainstay on Coach Tom Scott's first string quint had had accounted for 70 points, was ruled ineligible. The Phantoms sustained a decisive 63 to 34 setback at the hands of the Violets in Madison Square Garden and subsequent 61 to 51 loss to Temple at Philadelphia the following evening.

Prior to the N. Y. U. defeat, Carolina was ranked among the top college basketball teams in the nation. Following the Temple defeat the Phants won their next three outings over Pennsylvania, V. P. I. and Davidson, respectively. But along came N. C. State to blast the Phantoms by 81-42.

After triumphs over Duke and Maryland by slim margins, Coaches Tom Scott and Pete Mullis lost the services of dependable Norm Kohler, a starting guard who sustained a knee injury at College Park. The Carolina coaches were forced to call on inexperienced manpower again and revamp their lineup a second time. Coy Carson, Roger Scholbe and Fred Swartzberg alternated in the starting forward slot left vacant by the loss of Bill Miller. Taylor Thorne and Dan Nyimicz took turns about in Kohler's guard spot. The Phantoms found it tough going from here out, dropped another game to N. C. State, slipping by Davidson but falling before Duke's Blue Devils, 56-45, in the second meeting of these two teams.

The White Phantoms were seeded two in the Southern Conference tournament and walloped V. P. I. in the first round 61-40 before bowing to N. C. State 55-50. State, one of the nation's powerhouses, went on to win its second Southern Conference Championship.

Scott will lose the services of eight varsity men next season: John (Hook) Dillon, All-American in 1945; Captain Bob Paxton, Taylor Thorne, Roger Scholbe, Norm Kobler, Fred Swortzberg, Mark Nathan, and Mervin Cole. Gangling center Nemo Nearman will be back in harness along with Dan Nyimicz and Coy Carson.

Freshman Outlook

The Carolina Freshman basketball squad has scheduled 17 regular games and at the time this went to press they had won their first four contests by wide margins.

As last year, the Freshman contingent is coached by Jim (Pappy) Hamilton, varsity star of two years ago.

The outlook is good for the Freshmen. The squad has several boys who will be a big help to the varsity squad next year. The team is fast and aggressive and in Lonnie Johnson and John Bowersox possess good varsity material.

Johnson, a forward from Pikeville, Ky., has been given a starting berth and exhibits a fine one handed push shot. Bowersox, a Jacksonville, N. C. lad, according to varsity Coach Scott is very promising and has a variety of shots used with equal skill.

Leonard Guyes, a 6-6 center from Greensboro, is another good varsity prospect. Ed (Ham) Crowder, Wilson, N. C., is a tricky little guard who has a good set shot and with a little more experience will be varsity material. Dick Harter, a Pennsylania boy, is the other forward in the starting lineup. One of the scrappiest players on the squad, he is fast and aggressive.

With a fine crop of reserves, the freshman squad should provide the Varsity crew with top flight material for next year.
